Birth Control/Contraceptives

Contraceptives Background

- “Contraception is crucial for helping women avoid unintended pregnancies, and it has myriad health, social and economic benefits”
- “Since the mid-1990s, 28 states have required health insurance plans regulated by the state that provide coverage of prescription drugs and devices to also cover prescription contraceptives”
- Under the Affordable Care Act of 2010, there is a federal contraceptive coverage guarantee that applies to most private health plans nationwide, which “specifically requires coverage for 18 methods of contraception used by women[...] along with related counseling and services, and it requires this coverage to be provided without any out-of-pocket costs to the patient”
- “29 states and the District of Columbia require insurers that cover prescription drugs to provide coverage of FDA-approved prescription contraceptive drugs and devices”

United States Facts

- 23% of women in need of publicly funded family planning services are uninsured
- 21 million of U.S. women ages 13-44 were likely in need of publicly supported contraceptive services and supplies in 2016
- 18 states (and DC) require emergency rooms to provide emergency contraception to sexual assault survivors
